

The Ghostly Galleon Arrives To Deliver Very Different Halloween Fun

Magic, monsters and mayhem await the intrepid young scallywags and parents boarding the most haunted ship east of Helvellyn, which will be emerging from the waters of mysterious Ullswater in the Lake District on Halloween.

The Ghostly Galleon will surge up from the depths to take its passengers on a choice of two sailings on October 31, at 12.30pm or 3pm from Glenridding Pier, at the bottom of the lake. Each trip from shore will last a spooky two hours and be full of adventure and antics provided by the motley crew.

The Stu-di-Doo magic show will be on board the Ullswater 'Steamers' Ghostly Galleon and will be providing many giggles, surprises and squeals of delight. Balloon modelling will also enthrall the kids, who will also all take home a goody bag of sweets.

With games aboard and juice and tea or coffee for the adults, it's a great value day out on the water and a fabulous way to celebrate Halloween in a very different way.

Tickets cost £12 per person (under 3s free) and need to be booked in advance at www.ullswater-steamers.co.uk or by calling 017684 82229. Fancy dress is encouraged, but not essential.

- ends -

Press calls: Jane Hunt, Catapult PR, 01253 891114 – jane@catapultpr.co.uk